BREAKS THE DEADLOCK

Controller Murray Settles

Question of Successor by Remaining in Office.

But for the insistence by Senator Cullom that his son-in-law, William Barrett Ridgely, be appointed controller of the currency again, it is likely that a change in that office would have occurred by this time.

Lawrence O. Murray, the present controller, had practically completed an arrangement by which he was to become president of the First National Bank of Pittsburgh at a salary of $25,000 a year, and Secretary MacVeagh had decided to recommend George E. Roberts of Iowa, the present director of the mint, as the successor to Mr. Murray.

Mr. Roberts resigned as director of the mint a few years ago to accept the presidency of the Commercial National Bank of Chicago, of which Mr. MacVeagh was a director and a heavy shareholder. He served in that capacity until the Commercial National was consolidated with another bank and then returned to Washington to resume the office of director of the mint.

Secured Taft's Promise.

It appears that Senator Cullom learned that Controller Murray was considering the offer to become president of the Pittsburgh bank and valued upon the President that he secured some sort of a promise from the President that in case of a vacancy in the office of Controller, Mr. Ridgely, who preceded Mr. Murray in the office, should be appointed.

A friendly deadlock ensued, the President standing on his promise to Senator Cullom and Secretary MacVeagh insisting that Mr. Roberts be appointed. The matter was finally adjusted by Controller Murray deciding to remain in office.

WANTS CASE REOPENED.

Crane Iron Works Petitions the Commerce Court.

The Commerce Court yesterday was petitioned by the Crane Iron Works of Philadelphia to reopen an old case against the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The iron works, before the interstate commerce commission, demanded that through routes and joint rates be granted by the Jersey Central with the Crane Railroad Company, a subsidiary company.

The commission several months ago, after a hearing and investigation, dismissed the case.

ALEXANDRIA AFFAIRS

City Extension to Be Considered Tuesday Evening.

APPROVAL IS EXPECTED

Two Counties Deprived of Territory

Will Fight—Arguments on the Rixey Case.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., November 11, 1911.

The most important measure that will be presented to city council at its meeting Tuesday night is the ordinance providing for the extension of the city limits.

The ordinance will come up for final passage, and there is every reason to believe that it will pass.

It provides that the city attorney at once institute the necessary legal proceedings for the acquisition of the territory mentioned in the ordinance.

The territory proposed to be taken in extends to Hunting creek on the south, Robert's lane on the west and Lloyd's lane on the north. This territory takes in a good part of Alexandria county and a portion of Fairfax county, principally that part known as West End, which is well settled.

The authorities of both counties propose to vigorously fight the measure, and before this territory is acquired, if it is ever done, the city will have a struggle on its hands.

Cows Killed by Train.

Three cows were killed at 2 o'clock this morning on the Harrisonburg branch of the Southern railway by being struck by a northbound freight. Two were killed outright and the third died shortly after being struck.

At the time of the accident the freight came thundering along in charge of Engineer Henry Fox, this city, and there was a dense fog prevailing. As soon as Engineer Fox discovered that he had struck something he brought his train to a halt. The engine stopped about a hundred yards, found the mangled remains of two cows along the tracks, and the third dying nearby. The cows struck were, it is said, on a nearby three scowling.

Engineer John L. Jaffrey of Norfolk, Va., who will be associated with Attorney Lewis H. Machen in the defense of Lewis H. Machen in the defense of Lewis H. Machen, former secretary and the general manager of the Mercantile Railway Building and Loan Association, against whom nine indictments are pending in connection with the collapse of that concern, was in Alexandria today, preparing his case. As stated in The Star this afternoon, application will be made Tuesday when the case is called in the corporation court for continuance, and it is believed it will be granted.

In the Churches.

The morning services at Christ P. E. Church tomorrow will be conducted by Dean Crawford of the Episcopal Theological Seminary, and the night services will be conducted by Mr. Will, a student at the seminary.

At the First Baptist Church Rev. W. F. Watson, pastor, will take for his subject at the morning services, "The Edifying Disciple." At the night services his subject will be, "A Speechless Man."

"Things That Are Not Seen" will be the subject of the address of Rev. H. M. Cantor, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. At the night services there will be a Bible reading and preaching by Rev. Harry Wilson of Baltimore.

Rev. Dr. John Lee Allison, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, will take for his subject at the morning services, "Eternity and Man's Relation to It."

A series of revival services, which will last for two weeks, will be started tomorrow at Trinity Methodist Church. The opening sermon will be preached by Rev. George Buckner of Washington. At the morning services Rev. G. A. Luttrell, pastor, will take for his subject, "Saving Self by Saving Others."

The services at the Methodist Protestant Church will be conducted by Rev. C. J. Ketter of Washington, Md.

Owing to the illness of Rev. W. M. Polak, pastor, there will be no services at the Methodist Protestant Church.

Arguments in Rixey's Case.

Arrangements are being made for the hearing of arguments for the sending of C. James Rixey, former head of the department of the currency, to the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

Corporation, to the asylum for the criminal insane at Marion, Va.

Rixey, who was indicted following the failure of the currency, escaped trial on the insanity plea, having been declared to be of unsound mind by a committee of alienists. Afterward Rixey was sent to the asylum at Staunton, Va.

The commonwealth's attorney will argue for the sending of the accused back to Marion, while Rixey's attorneys will fight his removal from the Staunton institution, where he is now.

The hearing will be heard by Judge Barley in the corporation court.

"Just Plain Folks," a comedy drama, will be presented Tuesday night by the local dramatic club at the Elks' Home. Proceeds will be for the benefit of the Alexandria Free Kindergarten.

The funeral of Alvin M. Wattles, who died last night at the hospital, will take place at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon from the undertaking chapel.

Tue services will be conducted by Rev. W. J. Morton, rector of Christ P. E. Church.

The matter was finally adjusted by Controller Murray deciding to remain in office.

Elks' Memorial Service.

Arrangements are rapidly being completed by the memorial committee of Alexandria Lodge of Elks for its annual memorial service, which will be held December 3 at the Elks' Home.

It is expected that early next week the certificate of disqualification for the occasion will be selected.

Twelve men, six white and six colored, some from Fairfax county and some from this city, sentenced to work on the state convict road force, were this afternoon carried out of the city by Capt. M. C. Whitcomb and a number of guards.

The men were marched up King street to the railway station, and they attracted considerable attention as they marched in solidly.

A number of Boy Scouts from Washington came over to this city this afternoon. The boys marched in solidly and after a short stay returned to Washington.

DEMAND FOR TEACHERS.

Graduates of Colored Normal School Scattered Throughout the Land.

Washington colored Normal School graduates are going out into various sections of the country, and according to the belief of some of the school officials, this city will soon have a representation of graduates in all parts of the country.

A report just received by Roscoe C. Bruce, assistant superintendent of colored schools, from Dr. Lucy E. Moten, principal of Normal School No. 2, shows that three graduates of that school are now teaching in the Tuskegee Institution of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, at Greensboro, N. C.; six at Annapolis, Md.; one at Morgan, Col.; two at Fairmont Heights, Md.; one at Bowie, Md.; two at Sandy Spring, Md.; one at Texas and Georgia, Mass.; one at West Virginia, Philadelphia, Pa.; Somerville, N. J.; Freehold, N. J., and two in parts of Virginia.

Most of these graduates are members of the classes of 1910 and 1911, although a few received their diplomas in 1908 and 1909. One is a teacher of kindergarten and another a teacher of cooking, the others being teachers in the regular courses.

WESSEL

Three Seamen Said to Have Caused a Stir.

TROUBLE WHILE IN PORT

Men From Revenue Cutter Climb Aboard Schooner and Put End to Disturbance.

Three scowling seamen aboard the schooner Victor C. Records, docked at Wilmington, N. C., made that ordinarily comfortable craft a dangerous place for a "spare cop" or any other ordinary guardian of the peace for several days last week, and had things running their own way from sternpost to bowsprit until half a dozen "bushies" from the revenue cutter Seminole climbed aboard the schooner and put an end to all foolishness in the line of mutiny. This was according to a telegram received by the revenue cutter service from Wilmington, N. C., yesterday.

The Victor C. Records had tied up to a wharf at Wilmington to unload a cargo of groceries and general supplies, and to take on some fine white pine for a northern port. The three scowling seamen worked hard enough for two days, but they went wrong as soon as they landed with pay in their pockets. The kind of whisky sold to seamen in some of the Wilmington waterfront saloons is the sort that makes buccaners out of callow youths, and out of hardened seamen it makes roaring bulls.

Refuse to Work.

For three days after the three scowling seamen first tasted of that fiery rum, according to the advice to the service here, they ran that ship and refused to work. They threatened to shoot the captain with baying pins, it is alleged, sticking close to the accepted manner of threats aboard ship. They tossed the mate overboard and insisted that the captain to climb back again. As for the captain, he couldn't do a thing with them. Finally, the mate, growing embarrassed over the false position he had been put in, called on the United States marshal.

The rest of Wilmington's seafaring community were the three scowling seamen, and were having no end of fun out of the mate.

The marshal wanted to do his duty, but he had heard of serious trouble aboard schooners, and wanted to delay the game long enough to gain his point by strategy. While he was reconnoitering on the dock one of the three scowling ones tossed a bottle his way and nearly brained him. It certainly appeared as if there would be trouble on that dock if any one attempted to arrest that set of mutineers.

Revenue Cutter to Rescue.

However, the Seminole dropped into port quietly about that time and let her anchors into the mud of the harbor with a rattling of chains. The idea struck the marshal that here was exactly the way out of the difficulty. He rowed out in a boat to see Capt. John C. Berry, commander of the cutter. Capt. Berry has a crew of jacks who would like to fight something every day. He sent six of them under Lieut. W. K. Thompson over to see what was going on aboard the schooner Victor C. Records, which looked peaceable enough tied up to its wharf. The three scowling mutineers saw them coming, and a great change took place. When the marshal climbed aboard—he had kindly allowed Lieut. Thompson and the squad of jacks to do the honors and go first—he found three scowling mutineers almost holding out their hands, being to be arrested. They were thoroughly tamed. There is nothing like a revenue cutter crew to take the starch out of a tough mutiny.

EULOGIES TO BE PRONOUNCED.

Services in Memory of Dead of Grand United Order of Odd Fellows.

Memorial services will be held by the Veterans' Association of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the John Wesley A. M. E. Z. Church, 18th street near L street northwest, Rev. C. Cameron Alleyne pastor. Eulogies will be pronounced by R. D. Lockley, Leroy Harvey, Clarence Jones, Jacob B. Ashline, Isaiah Brown and Henry N. Bowles, with "solemn tokens" by officers of the association. The dead to be commemorated include Sampson Moore, Alexander Tyler, James H. Lewis, A. Clements, Daniel Webster, Noid Priole and Andrew Spriggs. Appropriate music will be a feature.

The composition in charge of the services is composed of W. R. Scott, chairman; Frank Pendleton, John A. Sreet, James Hall, Addison Bailey, Lewis A. Dodson, J. B. Ashline, W. F. E. Brown, J. W. Williams and James L. Turner, secretary.

THE M. A. LEESE OPTICAL CO.

Takes Over the Entire Optical Business of H. D. FEAST (Formerly at 1213 F St.)

The growth of the M. A. Leese Optical Company has been phenomenal. Think of it—THIS IS THE FOURTH OPTICAL BUSINESS that has been ABSORBED IN THE LAST FEW YEARS.

Important To Former H. D. Feast Patrons

We desire to announce that in taking over the Feast business we have SECURED ALL THE PRESCRIPTIONS AND RECORDS OF THAT FIRM, WHICH ARE NOW AT 614 9TH STREET, and are prepared to continue to serve you with the same care and expediency as though no change in the handling of the former Feast business had taken place.

To the Public in General

These days mark "the survival of the fittest"—and as we grow we continue to improve. Today the M. A. LEESE OPTICAL CO. offers its patrons every advantage known to optical science.

We are fully prepared to give you that expert optical service which good eyesight demands. A completely equipped factory right on the premises enables us to offer you "made-to-order" glasses at the same price as the ordinary "ready-made" kind. Leese's glasses cost you no more than the ordinary kind. They're adjusted to your eyes to meet your requirements exactly and give you better service than any other eyeglasses made.

If you would have your optical prescriptions correctly filled, bring them to LEESE.

TURKEY TO BE SERVED TO DISTRICT WARDS

Inmates of Institutions Will Dine Well Thanksgiving Day.

Thanksgiving this year will mean turkey for the District's wards.

District Purchasing Officer Hargrove and Secretary Wilson of the Board of Charities have investigated market prices and the status of the funds of the various benevolent and charitable institutions, and have decided that turkey shall be the prime entry in the Thanksgiving dinner menu.

About the only institution that will not be interested in the announcement is the Home for the Aged and Infirm.

Every year that turkey has been in order the members of the home have indicated a preference for pork. Supt. William A. Fay has fattened a number of hogs this year, and the chances are that one or two of the hogs will be slaughtered to furnish roast pork for the Thanksgiving repast.

At Other Institutions.

At all of the other institutions, with the possible exception of the workhouse, at Occoquan, where Supt. Whitaker also has fattened several hogs, turkey will be served. This promises to be particularly noticeable at the Municipal Lodging House, which is said to show an increase in the number of transients registered every year it is announced turkey will be a Thanksgiving dinner feature.

The expectation is that Thanksgiving will mean meat to about one hundred and forty children in the Industrial Home School and nearly sixty children in the colored Industrial Home School. At the Temporary Home for Soldiers and Sailors there are about forty persons who will look forward to the treat, while in the Washington asylum and jail there are between 250 and 300.

Last year turkey featured the Thanksgiving menus at the various institutions, more than 100 pounds of the meat being consumed.

CONDITIONS SIMPLIFIED.

Importation in Bond of Aeroplanes and Other Articles for Exhibition.

Conditions under which aeroplanes, automobiles and a number of articles for exhibition and other purposes can be imported into the United States were named by the Treasury Department yesterday. Revising and simplifying existing regulations, the department has annulled the requirement that a new bond be given on exportation and a foreign certificate be presented on importation. The bond given on the entry of the goods will be sufficient in future, but this bond will be held until the production of a foreign certificate in the case of bonds of $100 or less. These small bonds may be canceled by satisfactory evidence that the merchandise has been exported.

Other articles affected by the ruling include motor cycles, motor boats, and theatrical scenery, machinery and railroad iron, imported temporarily for various purposes.

Bureau of Chemistry's Work.

A total of more than 18,000 food and drug inspections were conducted by the bureau of chemistry of the Department of Agriculture during the last fiscal year.

Of the interstate samples inspected 4,281 were found to be legal, and 3,113 were adulterated and misbranded, within the meaning of the law. There were 36,124 food inspections of imported food and drug samples made at the entrance ports of the United States, over half of these being in New York.

WELL WORTH THE SHOT.

W. M. Mooney and his 26-pound wild turkey gobbler, which he shot at Pine Knot, Albemarle county, Va.

HEAVY-WEIGHT TURKEY.

Bird Weighing 26 Pounds Bagged by W. M. Mooney.

A twenty-six pound wild turkey gobbler was the prize bird of a bag of ten killed by W. M. Mooney Friday at Pine Knot, Albemarle county, Va.

Mr. Mooney went to Pine Knot a few days ago to hunt with "Jim" Bishop, an old-time turkey hunter and a friend of former President Roosevelt, who was a country place near Pine Knot. Roosevelt's acquaintance with Bishop began in a turkey hunt and ripened into a friendship after the old hunter had shown that he knew exactly where to find the big birds.

That Albemarle county is still a good place to find turkeys is evidenced by Mr. Mooney's luck.

CHILD BADLY BURNED.

Flames From Burning Leaves Set Evelyn Lusby's Clothing Afire.

Evelyn Lusby, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lusby of Good Hope, D. C., was severely burned yesterday afternoon by her clothing catching fire from a bonfire in the yard at her parents' home. Her condition, although serious, is not regarded as critical. The skin was burned from her neck to her knees.

Mrs. Bessie Lusby, mother of the child, had been burning leaves in the rear premises at her home about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She went into the house and left the child with several companions in the yard. She had been gone but a short time when she heard a scream, and upon looking out of the back door saw her daughter running toward the house with her clothing on fire.

As the child ran the wind fanned the flames, and when she reached the house she was ablaze from head to foot. Mrs. Lusby called for assistance and Mrs. Bertha Shipley and Edward Allen, who were in the house, responded. The three adults beat out the flames with their hands. The clothing was burned entirely off the little girl's back.

It was stated last night that the child was resting comfortably. It is believed she did not inhale the flames.
